

the difference between the approximation and the exact solution as the number of areas increases